Referrals for Adoption-Related Services:

Thank you for your inquiry about adoption-related services.

Lutheran Community Services Northwest (LCSNW) does not provide services related to adoptions, but we partner with the Washington Adoption Reunion Movement (WARM), a Washington-based nonprofit organization for this purpose.

LCSNW is the successor to several precursor organizations that were involved in adoption work, and as such, LCSNW is the legal custodian of certain sealed records. However, we do not have the ability to unseal or share these documents without a request in the form of a Court Order or from a designated Confidential Intermediary such as WARM (RCW 26.33.330).

WARM is dedicated to reuniting families separated by adoption. They serve adoptees, birth family members, and adoptive families with information, referral, support, and search services, including performing DNA analysis to name and locate birth fathers. Specializing in Washington State, WARM also has resources in various other states and jurisdictions. WARM has been reuniting families since 1976.

More information about WARM can be found at <https://warmsearch.org/>.
